Tropical depression spotted off N. Luzon

By Joyanto L. Aragon and Philip Salazar

PHACE spawned six rain squalls and flash floods. The low pressure area spawned near northern Luzon has developed into a tropical depression, and it is called "Tomas" by the weather bureau last yesterday.

The low deepened to a 4th-level low last night, and forecasters say it may intensify to a 3rd-level low by today.

The Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Administration (PAGASA) said the system is expected to bring rain to most of northern Luzon, particularly Cebu, Iloilo, and Manila.

Forecasters warned that heavy rain could trigger landslides and flash floods, particularly in the mountainous areas of northern Luzon.

As of 4 p.m., PAGASA said the system of Tomas was a 4th-level low, with a central pressure of 995 hPa.

Soured business deal not of our making, firm insists

By Steve C. Brundage

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A deal to build a new airport terminal in St. Louis that was supposed to be a landmark project for a local construction firm has fallen apart, and the firm insists it was not responsible for the souring of the deal.

The deal, which was announced last year, was for the construction of a new terminal at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport. The deal was worth $1.2 billion and was supposed to be a major win for the firm, which has been struggling for years.

The firm, which is based in St. Louis, has been in a long-term decline since the late 1990s. It has lost several major projects and has seen its stock price drop significantly.

What's happening in Panlabangan?

Figure 1 consists of two NMR spectra. Spectrum (a) is a 1D ^1H NMR spectrum of poly(2-vinylpyridine) in CDCl_3 . The x-axis is labeled δ (ppm) and ranges from 0 to 10. The spectrum shows several peaks: a broad peak around 6.5-7.5 ppm (vinyl protons), a cluster of peaks between 6.0 and 7.0 ppm (pyridine ring protons), and a broad peak around 1.5-2.5 ppm (backbone protons). Spectrum (b) is a 2D COSY spectrum of poly(2-vinylpyridine) in CDCl_3 . The x-axis is labeled δ (ppm) and ranges from 0 to 10. The y-axis is labeled δ (ppm) and ranges from 0 to 10. The spectrum shows correlations between the vinyl protons and the pyridine ring protons, indicated by cross-peaks.

Differences

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of species (N) for different numbers of genera (G) and families (F). The x-axis represents the number of genera (G) from 1 to 10. The y-axis represents the number of families (F) from 1 to 10. The z-axis represents the number of species (N) from 1 to 10. The bars are colored in a gradient from light blue to dark blue. The distribution shows that for a given number of genera, the number of species increases with the number of families. For example, for 10 genera, there are 10 species for 1 family, 20 species for 2 families, and 30 species for 3 families. The total number of species increases as the number of genera increases.

Mercury ban divides small miners

MANILA, July 27—The move to ban mercury in small-scale mining has divided the industry, with some miners supporting the ban and others opposing it. The ban, which is part of a larger effort to reduce mercury emissions, is expected to be implemented in the coming months. However, many small-scale miners are concerned that the ban will reduce their income and force them to find other ways to support their families. Some miners are also worried that the ban will lead to the closure of their mines and the loss of their livelihoods.

Small-scale miners are a vital part of the economy in many developing countries, and they often rely on mercury to extract gold from their ore. The ban on mercury is a major step towards reducing mercury emissions, but it is also a major challenge for small-scale miners. They need to find alternative ways to extract gold from their ore, and they need to be supported in this process. The government and international organizations should work together to provide small-scale miners with the resources and information they need to transition to a mercury-free mining industry.

The diagram shows the flow of information from the stimulus to the response, with labels for 'Stimulus', 'Target', 'Response', and 'Participant'.

BUSINESS

Proposed taxation on e-commerce needs further study, experts say

MINI REPORT

THE PROPOSED digital sales tax, which would require e-commerce businesses to collect and remit sales tax on transactions, has drawn sharp criticism from industry groups and economists. They argue that the tax would be a double burden on consumers, as it would be added to the existing state and local sales taxes. The tax would also be a burden on businesses, as it would require them to track and collect sales tax on transactions that are often made through third-party intermediaries. The tax would also be a burden on consumers, as it would increase the price of goods and services. High-flying 'Saltimbanco' is an explosion of colors

After centuries and performances in almost all types of circuses, the high-flying troupe Saltimbanco brings the vibrant colors of acrobats from 24 countries to Manila.

By Olyvia P. Pangelinan
and others

High-flying acrobats started in the 19th century, making their way to the Philippines in the 1920s. The first troupe to perform in the Philippines was the Saltimbanco, which arrived in Manila in 1924.

The troupe, which has been performing in the Philippines for over 80 years, is known for its high-flying acrobats and colorful costumes. The troupe's performances are a mix of traditional and modern acrobatics, and they have become a popular attraction in the Philippines.

TomoTherapy treatment for cutting-edge cancer care

With the TomoTherapy system, radiation oncologists can deliver highly precise, personalized treatment plans to patients with cancer. The system's unique helical tomotherapy design allows for the delivery of highly conformal, intensity-modulated radiation therapy (IMRT) to the target area, while sparing surrounding healthy tissue. This results in improved treatment outcomes and reduced side effects for patients.

The TomoTherapy system is a cutting-edge technology that combines the precision of IMRT with the flexibility of helical tomotherapy. It allows for the delivery of highly conformal, intensity-modulated radiation therapy (IMRT) to the target area, while sparing surrounding healthy tissue. This results in improved treatment outcomes and reduced side effects for patients.
